THéoDDISÉs
Theology and Law in the 12th Century
Differences, Interactions, Singularities

http://theoddises.hypotheses.org/

Coordinated by:
Pr. Raphaël ECKERT
(Université de Strasbourg)
Pr. Corinne LEVELEUX
(Université d'Orléans– EPHE/PSL)

Team :
Pr. M. BASSANO (Toulouse)
Dr. E. CORRAN (London)
Pr. S. DUSIL (Tübingen)
Pr. C. GIRAUD (Genève, EPHE/PSL)
Pr. S. GOLTZBERG (Bruxelles)
Pf. Ch. GRELLARD (EPHE/PSL)
Pr. I. IRIBARREN (Strasbourg)
Pr. A. A. LARSON (Saint Louis)

Funded by the RnMSH (France), ThéoDDISés is an exploratory project, first step of a vast investigation aiming to reassess the relationship between Law and Theology in the 12th century. Based on a learned corpus of works dealing with common themes (whether classified today as "rather" theological or legal), TheoDDISés intends to shed light on contemporary debates on the construction and separation of disciplines in the 12th century.

TheoDDISés aims at building and exploiting a database from a learned corpus of the 12th century, widely in manuscript. The objective is to highlight the processes of circulation of references, allegations, and doctrinal positions.

1st step: selection of sources (Canon and Roman Law, Theology, more than 300 mss inventoried). Reproductions of unpublished mss (Admont 7 and 35, Antwerp Plantin M13, Leipzig 958, 1012, Haenel 17, Bamberg Can. 42, Napoli VII C 43...).

2nd step: selection of three themes crossing all the works of the corpus: baptism, sacrilege and lies.

3rd step: gathering of sources (manuscripts and edited sources OCRised).

4th step: creation of an XML database in local access, increased as the analysis progresses, exploited by a textometry software (TXM).

5th step: testing and presentation of the database during a workshop in France - end of 2022. Next : further development in a larger corpus, using HTR.